The Fraunhofer IMW is researching the research topic "Return on Education" on behalf of Festo Didactic SE. The aim of the project is to evaluate the impact of training measures (advanced training) in different contexts. In the study the impact of trainings on process understanding, problem solving techniques and methods will be investigated. The background is that the need for further training, especially against the background of lifelong learning, digitalization and automation continues to increase.

With the help of the questionnaires, the feedback and the effect of the further training measures are to be collected from the employees. Completion of the questionnaires is voluntary. No personal data is collected. This means that no names or other identifying information will be collected. All information in the questionnaires is treated confidentially.

The questionnaires are collected on a monthly basis. They are then evaluated by the project staff. The results are used in publications and presentations without quoting the individual questionnaires.

The data from the questionnaires will be deleted after the end of the project (30.06.2024).
